-WHEELING VA:-FRIDAY MORNING, NOV. 11, 1859.

LARGEST DAILY, TRI-WEEKLY, AND WEEKLY GIRGULATION, OF ANY PAPER IN WHEELING.

READ THE BATES MANIFESTO—on our first page this morning.

We have Dr. Chiever's sermon on Harper's Ferry, delivered in the church of the Puritans, New York, last Sunday night. Its a poor

THE Rev. T. Starr King, one of the Theological guns of Boston, delivered his lecture on "the Laws of Disorder" (what a title!) at Cincinnati, the other night, we see. The papers there make partial reports of it. King maintains that all things have laws which govern them, even such chances as deaths, hurts and all sorts of accidents, including marriages. He took a good deal of romance out of the last named subject, by addresing a few remarks to the young people before him to the effect that the marriages in that community this winter and coming year, would depend on the supplies of pork and flour.

He also stated that

Proportion is maintained throughout all departments of nature. We do not see it all, but wherever the statist and philosopher have investigated they have discovered the workings of that mysterious law. Even men and women are proportioned to each other numerically; not always exactly, for even here is apparent irregularity; but the law is inevitable. In Europe the sexes are proportioned as one hundred women to one hundred and six men. Statesmen have greatly satisfied themselves that this was to satisfy the ravages of war. Others have a conceit that it was intended to make allowance for Catholic priests, who do not marry; while some ladies have contended that nature had made a provision for the vinegar element of society-old bachelors-who sustain the same relation to society that lemon does to a punch.

The Rev. King inculcates what is not a fact. There may be one hundred and six men to every one hundred women in Europe, but it is on an account of the ravages of war, and not specially to meet the demands of war. Nature doesn't play second fiddle to French Napoleons in that way. If she did, Brigham Young would have the Gentiles in a logical corner. In all our large cities, and even many of our smaller ones there are thousands and hundreds more of women than men. The fact proves nothing except what we all easily understand, viz: that young men come and go, while young women come, but don't go so much. A man raises a big family of daughters, and they are permanent stock on hand until death or matrimony comes to his relief. Not so with his sons.

All this does not implicate dame nature. It only shows a screw loose in the social artificial

THE Unicago Times says the manner in which the bodies of persons killed in the railroad disaster near Watertown were mangled and torn to pieces, is almost too horrible to be believed. Mr. T. L. Gillett, of Fond du Lac, was caught by the feet in some way, so that his body was literally split asunder to some distance. Yet he recognised his friends, and begged them to terminate his life, and thus his pain. Dr. Miner, of Watertown, who was killed on the platform, was so crushed between the cars that not a single bone was left in his body unbroken. Jerome Mason, the express agent, had his head cut open and his bowels partly burnt by the stove. Mr. Sickles had both his legs cut off below the knees, and afterwards survived amputation above the knees. He lived but a short time afterwards. Mr. Boardman was thrown from the car upon the ground, and quickly rising upon his feet, reached his arms upward to their full length, as if to grasp something beyond his reach, then with almost superhuman strength was approaching the ruins, in spite sf the resistance of friends, who had taken hold of him; then as sudddnly fell into the arms of those at hand, and immediately died. Mr. Petersilia had both legs broken, or rather crushed, the flesh being torn into shreds. He lived about half an hour in the most horrible agony. All the others killed were terribly torn and mangled. The! Times says that had there been a statute requiring the road to be fenced before any train could be run, nothing of the kind would probably have occurred.

A Baltimore paper, in a brief resume of a long paper by Dr. Bell, of England, discussing the value of alcoholic stimulants as a remedy for the consumption, says that the Doctor has entirely satisfied himself, 1st, that liquor has no marked influence in preventing the deposition of tuberculous matter in the lung; 2d, that it rather disposes to such a result; 8d, it has no obvious effect in modifying the usual course of development of tuberculous matter, and 4th, that it does not mitigate in any considerable degree the morbid effect of the tubercle upon the system in any state of the disease.

Tue Cincinnati Commercial makes a hit on the $10,000 advertisement in the Richmond Whig, which some fool fire-eater over there offered for the delivery of Giddings body or head in Richmond. In commenting on it, the Commercial says that These fire-eating, negro driving gentlemen had better rest contented with the blood of "Old Brown." That will be "seed" enough for a plentiful crop of abolitionists, without adding to it that of Giddings, or any other obnoxious gentleman from the North who has achieved similar notoriety.

Mr. Germain, the Buffalo lecturer, whom we noticed the other morning as advertised to speak there on Tuesday night last, proposes the construction of a ship four thousand feet long, to run with a speed of one hundred miles an hour, and carry the population of a Congresional district. The cost would be fifteen mil-

A passenger named Townley, who was on board the steamer Champion, sunk in the Long Island Sound last week by a collision, says as he walked about the boat he had a strange presentiment that something would happen, that he had bettter not go to sleep that night, and this feeling was so strong that he never took off his clothes, but continued roving about until the collision occurred. He had just stepped into the cabin and taken a chair, when he heard the concussion and found the steam rushing through the vessel. His presentiment was strongly aroused-he knew that something had happened, and going to the berth and finding his son in a sound sleep, he took him out bodily and carried him up on deck without waking him. The lad did not wake up until he was safe on the upper deck. The water filled the cabin so quickly that Mr. Townley is confident that had he stopped to wake the boy, he would have been drowned. He says he was surprised that the noise of the collision was so slight-he could liken it to nothing but striking a dull axe into a rotten log. On reaching the deck he went at once to the ladies' cabin. He was surprised to find the ladies coming out deliberately and in perfect order, as if under the direction of a marshall. They walked from the steamer directly on board the propeller, which still stuck to the Champion. The latter filled almost instantly, and within fifteen minutes was under

A SINGULAR story reaches us from California relative to the Broderick duel, and the circumstances preceding the melancholy event. A revelation is made to the effect that in 1857, Mr. Gwin wrete an imploring letter to Mr. Broderick, asking his assistance in the Legislature to seeure him the United States Senatorship. As an equivalent for this service, Gwin promised Mr. B. that he should have the disposal of Government patronage in California. Gwin was elected through the assistance of Broderick, but no sooner did he reach Washington than he attempted to recall the letter. After repeated appeals to his colleague, Gwin ascertained that the letter was in the keeping of William I. Ferguson of the California Senate. Ferguson was called out and shot without due provocation, and the same day his desk in the Senate was rifled of its contents. The letter was not among these papers, but Ferguson had already disclosed its hiding place to Gen. Estill, just before his death. Estill received it, and soon after died, no one knowing the cause. He had, however, previously informed Broderick where it might be found, and the now deceased Senator, having become possessed of it, first gave it publicity in a speech at Sacramento, on the 9th day of July, with these remarkable words:

A curse seems to follow the secret possession of this letter. I give it to the public that the curse may return to its author; that wherever he may go, by day or night, the people shall only see the letter of disgrace worn on his fore-head, as was the Scarlet Letter worn on the preast of Hester Prynne.

THE Far West correspondent of the Boston Journal writes that the Choctaws have a permanent fund of more than $1,000,000 in the hands of our government, including $100,000 set apart for school purposes. The interest is paid annually, affording them a revenue of $60,000, which meets all their governmental and educational expenses, and obviates the necessity of taxes. There are ten "mission" boarding schools in the nation, at which, in addition to the common and higher English branches, the boys are systematically exercised at farm labor, and the girls are initiated into the manifold mysteries of housewifery. The Methodists have charge of most of these institutions, but several are conducted by the Presbyterians. Some six hundred children are receiving instruction in these schools. ---

EUROPEAN affairs are in as great a snarl as our comy cabinet suppose American affairs to be. The continent is full of "complicities," which no body can straighten out. Every new step in the attempt to settle difficulties only reveals more clearly the fact that they are not soon to be settled. Such is the passion for strife, that poor old Spain is bent upon getting a little glory from pounding the half-savage Moors, if she can not be allowed to supplant the French in Rome. It remains to be seen whether she is not acting under French advice and inspiration.

A student in the University of Virginia writing from that Institution, states that "no vestige of the marble slab that designated the last resting place of the author of the Declaration of Independence," remains to point the spot-The visitors to his tomb, by chipping off fragments, have completly demolished it, and by piecemeal carried it away. An uncouth, granite pedestal, greatly disfigured, alone remains to RAPHAEL'S Fornarina is a lady that has been very much "talked about," though in his pictures, at least, she mingled in the choicest society (apostles and saints.) The chaste and pure King of Naples cannot abear her, as Jeems says, and a beautiful picture, in which her face is prominent, has just been ordered "down cellar," from the Borbonico Museum, to rest with the "nudes" which the late King put there.

POTATOES were thrown at Grisi and Mario in the Madrid opera house. Grisi left the stage bathed in tears, and fainted comfortably in the green room. Mario attempted to brave the vegetables, but soon retired. What the row was about doesn't appear. Grisi's voice, however, was harrowing.

During the year 1858, about one million and a quarter barrels flour were received at Boston -being about 4,000 barrels each business day. The present 'year, ending September 1st, the receipts were 1,077,720 barrels.

AT present, good hay is selling in the Buffalo market for $18 per ton. Large quantities of second quality is being shipped from as far west as Chicago. It is pressed in bales, and sells at from $12 to $16, according to quality.

THERE were 63,000 pieces of printing cloths sold in Providence last week at prieces half a cent better than week before, and "tending up-

The West Point Cadetship. We receive so many letters from young lads making enquiries respecting the mode of gain-ing admission to the Military Academy at West Point, that we conclude there is a very general igure in the character of a bold soldier boy. It may be serviceable to these aspiring youths to be informed, that the famous institution on the classic heights of the Hudson is not the paradise which some of them seem to fancy it. It is a blending of school and camp, with the igors of both. The cadets are pupils and soliers, and have severe duties to perform in both capacities; which duties, as they are paid for performing them, the government is bound to desire among the youth of the United States to xact and does exact. The honors of the Academy are chiefly bestowed for superiority in mathematics, the or-dinary drill in which is so severe that frequentfourth of the entering class is "counted out" at the end of the first session. The fare is at al!!" opposite of luxurious, and the pay-something less than thirty dollars a month-barely covers the unavoiable expenses. In addition to campng out during the summer, and rising before the sun at all seasons, and performing out-door drill in all weathers and temperatures, the cadets have occasionally the pleasure of being yet! startled from their sleep in the middle of the night by the roll of the drum, and tumbling out bed and mustering, fully equipped, in three minutes.

After five years of such life as this, those of the cadets who have not given out under it are rewarded with commissions in the army, and sent to some post pleasantly situated on the outskirts of civilization, five hundred miles from the drawing-room. There they pass the weary days waiting for the arrival of the monthly mail, and calculating the chances of promotion, and enduring the horrors of idleness without the alleviation of society. If posted nearer home, they are tormented with the sight of happy omes without being able to indulge the hope of possessing one. They find the girls willing enough to flirt with a handsome uniform, but by no means disposed to brave the wilderness upon sixty-eight dollars a month.

Flirting with a uniform is one thing, marry ing a poor lieutenant is another. The girls now-a-days, with all their fondness for romance. are gifted with a slight sense of arithmetic. And by the time our gay soldier has attained the rank and pay of Major or Lieutenant-Colonel, he is a venerable, gray-headed old gentleman of sixty, with two or three well defined rheumatisms in each limb. These coveted cadetships, moreover, like kissing, go by favor. A youth may possess every quality requisite for a soldier, but if nature has sternly denied him an influential uncle, or a father, capable of controlling elections, or a brother-in-law in high office, he need not attempt to get an appointment to the Military Academy. It will be a mere waste of time .-The thing is utterly out of the question. For very vacancy there are, at least, forty applicants, and the man who has the most personal Great French Remedy for Female Irregunfluence with the appointing power invariably gets it. This ought not so to be. The cadethips ought to be open to the competition of every youth in the country, and the vacancies filled with those applicants who, after a fair examination, promise to make the best soldiers. At some future day this will certainly be the from these difficulties, and know how unpleasant it is to mode of bestowing the cadetships. When the describe them to a physician, can appreciate the value of people of the United States take the trouble to a simple yet efficient remedy, which they may always have demand that their government, in all its depart- at hand, and apply at pleasure. ments, shall be administered for the benefit of the whole, instead of a class, many things will be done in a manner very different from that now in vogue. Till that happy day arrives, let no young man, unprovided with the indispensable uncle, parent or brother-in-law, bother his nead and lose his time in inquiring the road that leads to the West Point Military Academy, He won't find it. And if he did, he wouldn't be likely to like it. - Bonner's Ledger.

He, too, was costumed as the clothes, and the everlasting enormous pipe be. not been tampered with. Such an article is tween his lips, looked very like an imported Dutchman, barring the complexion. Struck with his appearance, we approached the party, and were astonished to hear him talking German with facility to a buxom but handsome ass. They were evidently enjoying the animated scene around them, and he appeared to be on equal footing with the party, as the girl laughed merrily at his remarks, and laid her The Famalle SEX will find it not only a pleasant C. hand confidingly and familliarly on his shoullearned that "Hans," as he was called, was saved from a wrecked ship, when a mere child, many years ago, and having been adopted and reared in the interior of Holland, had learned German, and cannot now speak one word of English .-N. DAVID HUME, who produced in his time so much skepticism as to the evidences of Christianity, does not seem to have convinced his own relatives. A correspondent of the Presbyterian

"By the way, speaking of Edinburgh, while there I acted as guide to a brother minister from America, on a visit to the tomb of the infidel Hume. It is a circular stone building; over its iron grated door there is inscribed his name with the dates of his birth and death. No doubt, like Voltaire, he flattered himself that he had given the death blow to Christianity. But behold, there on the wall of his tomb, those who were flesh of his flesh and bone of his bone, bear testimony to the fallacy of his expectation. On its outside, and immediately above the name of Hume himself, there is a tablet containing an inscription, by a David Hume, to his wife, Jane Alder, dated 1817, closing with these words, 'Behold, I come quickly. Thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory through dur Lord Jesus Christ.' Also, in the interior, there is another tablet, sacred to the memory of David Hume, one of the Barons of Exchequer, and his two sons, dated in 1848; the whole surmounted by these encouraging words, 'I am the Resur
